SHORT-SIGHTED gentlemen who cross the street to read circus posters now-a-days find themselves disappointed. They are only comic valentines in a shop window.

SLIGHTING.—The first sleighing for the winter of 1873-4 was enjoyed last night. Until a late hour the bells jingled merrily throughout the city, and lively merriment as they have not smiled for months.

POLICE COURT.—A young man named Cornelius Vance, who is not entirely unknown in police circles, saved this court from a whitewash yesterday morning. It was the old story. He goes up for thirty days.

RAIL FORFEITED.—Levi Friedlander, who was charged with obtaining goods under false pretences from Joseph Schuman at Pittsburgh, gave bond in $100 to appear before Judge McCormick at 2 P. M. yesterday. Friedlander failed to appear, and the bond was declared forfeited.

Snow Storm.—After several days of preparation and premonition, the weather clerk yesterday gave us a genuine snow storm. All day long the feathery flakes fell thick and fast, and Mother Earth was soon covered with a garment of pure white.

GOOD BUSINESS.—The proprietor of the St. Clairsville bus line is evidently doing a handsome business. The bus for St. Clairsville yesterday afternoon was crowded inside and out, and five passengers were left at Bridgeport for want of room.

THE FULTON ROW.—Squire Clarkson yesterday issued warrants for the arrest of August Miller, August Rust, Fritz Winder, Frank Schwartz and Christian Repp, who are charged with participating in a row at Fulton last Saturday night. Schwartz had a hearing last evening and was dismissed. The other cases were continued until Monday afternoon next. Repp was so badly injured in the riot that he was unable to appear.

MISS MEHOLIN'S LECTURE.—A very fair audience assembled in the Opera House last night to hear Miss Sallie J. Meholin's new lecture—"Which?" The different points in the lecture were ably handled and well illustrated, and the lady frequently received hearty applause. Miss M. is a fine speaker and an original thinker, and the lecture of last evening contained many hard hits at popular nuisances.

In opening, Miss Meholin announced that her text could be found recorded in the 2d verse of the 1st chapter of the Chronicles of Every Gumbler—"And it came to pass that he strove to render himself miserable, and likewise his neighbor also."

She said that the majority of our people live in a state of misery, and that a large class who seemingly are equally anxious to be miserable. To be miserable it is absolutely necessary that you suffer mentally as well as physically. It is necessary to keep ignorant of all that is good and useful, and to make up your mind that there is no such thing as disinterested friendship. Lovers of misery always meet trouble halfway.

To fulfill the requirements of the second clause of the text, and "likewise his neighbor also," it is only necessary that you make yourself disagreeable. Make it a point never to say a good word in anybody. Alluding to the careless training of children by their parents, she spoke of ignorant mothers and nurses; medical statistics show that one-third of all children born die before they are two years old, and three-fourths of these die through the carelessness or ignorance of mothers and nurses.

If there is one person above another who is eminently calculated to make innocent mortals miserable for an hour and a half at a time, it is a third or fourth rate preacher. Travel alone brings out the selfish and hateful in one's nature.

The secret of happiness is to know how to do something useful; encourage all branches of industry. Teach your children that labor is honorable, idleness a crime, and the importance of doing well whatever one undertakes. The most of our women who depend upon their own exertions for support are so illly prepared for any kind of work that the world knows no woman can do first-class work. A girl should have a good trade or profession, and be as independent as a boy. If a strong, healthy woman will only put her brain and will to work she can become as efficient as a man. Such a woman can feel that she has an important work to do, and can do it with a will.

SENATOR WILLEY'S LECTURE.—Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather and the unusual number of entertainments last night, quite a respectable audience was present at the Chapline Street M. E. Church to hear the Hon. W. T. Willey lecture on "We'll sing Hymnology versus Doggerel." Starting out with the famed remark of Luther, that he was "at odds with the man who did not love music," he proceeded to analyze Dr. Johnson's "critique of religious poetry." He did it in a manner which demonstrated his intimate knowledge of fair and generous criticism, and of broad and accurate definition of poetry, remarking that one might as well attempt to de-flower his estimate of Mr. Charles Wesley as a religious poet as a very high one, but not higher than that of the North British Review, an authority by no means friendly to the Wesleyans of England. His unsparring condemnation of the doggerel poetry in vogue in certain quarters was timely and just. A lecture like Mr. Willey's can be appreciated only by hearing it, and no brief newspaper report can do it justice. It betrayed a highly cultivated mind, keen powers of analysis, and the spirit of an intelligent Christian. The next lecture will be delivered by Rev. Dr. Watkins, of Pittsburgh, Pa., Friday evening, Feb. 13, 1874. Subject: "How Americans Talk."

BRIDGEPORT ITEMS.—E. P. Rhodes, Esq., and wife leave in a few days on an extended tour through the South. They will be in Memphis during the celebration of the Mardi Gras carnival. A pleasant trip to them.

At the Masonic supper in St. Clairsville a few evenings since, the Rev. W. F. Leach, of this place, was made the recipient of a very handsome Knight Templar's regalia at the hands of Hope Commandery.

We hear of a transfer of real estate to a young gentleman of this place, who is supposed to be contemplating matrimony. We do not know whether he intends committing that act or not, but the above would certainly look as though something serious were "on the boards."

The walk to the school house has been improved by an additional crossing of slack, much to the satisfaction of teachers and scholars.

Our gas works have not yet been completed, and there is a strong probability that they may remain in an unfinished condition for some time to come. We understand our "City Fathers" have been considering the Irishman's proposition to pay $40 per year more and have the moon shine every night. In the meantime we think if a few lamps were put up they would be hailed with a great deal of satisfaction by our citizens.
